PASCO, WASHINGTON

FRIDAY, SEPT. 28, 1962

First President Takes Office Next Monday

CBC WILL HAVE a president for the first time in its seven-year history when Donald Taylor Rippey, former director of Roswell, New Mexico, takes office formally October 1, according to Dr. James Thrasher, superintendent of the Pasco school district.

"Rippey has actually been working out of our district office since the middle of September in order to become familiar with our methods of operation," stated Thrasher.

Selected from applicants from across the United States, the 36-year-old new president was recommended by Dr. Thrasher and approved by the Pasco School Board.

Dr. Thrasher was aided in his selection of Rippey by Dr. Fred Esvelt, superintendent of Kennewick school district and Mr. Robert Chisholm, superintendent of Richland school district.

Having taught in junior high and been an elementary school principal, Rippey received his Bachelor of Arts degree from the University of New Mexico in 1950.

Two years later he earned his Masters degree from the same university.

Lacking only one quarter in residence at Colorado State College to complete his Doctorate degree, Rippey plans to finish this work the summer quarter of 1963.

A life member of the National Education Association, this native of Aztec, New Mexico, also belongs to Phi Delta Kappa, a national education fraternity, and was a member of Kiwanis in Roswell.

Rippey had been the director of Roswell Community College since 1958. He and his wife are now living in the Tri-City Area.

This includes the fact that last day for registration for fall classes is October 2. This is also the last day that a student may enroll in a new class.

"As soon as possible after October 2, faculty advisers will be assigned to students," said Mr. Haas.

Mr. Haas also reports that all men students should contact the draft board to find out if a 109 draft card is required.

The Guidance Center stated in addition that some calls on employment have been directed to them. Students interested in employment should contact the Center as soon as possible.

New Innovation Set by Neconia

A NEW innovation in Columbia Basin College's annual is being introduced this year.

The "Neconia" under the co-editorship of Rusty Kenney and Linda Brutzman will be distributed quarterly. Format of the annual will resemble that of a magazine and each edition reportedly will feature over 50 pages.

"Only one thousand year-books will be published each quarter," said Rusty, "at the tentative price of 75 cents to one dollar."

"The book should be quite attractive as we plan a cover in living color."

All persons interested in joining the annual staff should contact either editor as soon as possible.

Distributive Education Gives On-the-Job Training

By Howard Kiehlbauch, Coordinator of Distributive Education

DISTRIBUTIVE EDUCATION is the moving of goods and services from the producer or manufacturer to the consumer. It includes both retailing and wholesaling; it also includes transporting, or shipping the goods, storing them, pricing them, selling them, and delivering them.

Thus, course subjects, in this field range from merchandising, transportation and marketing to credit management, advertising, and salesmanship.

At the college level D.E. is known as a mid-management program, where talented young men and women study to become junior executives in our distributive businesses.

CBC graduates have been placed in positions of responsibility in the Tri-Cities and other areas. Many hold assistant manager jobs with chain stores, others manage a department such as the credit department or the personnel department, while some manage their own businesses.

Part of the program at CBC is on-the-job training where the student works several hours a day under the guidance of a successful businessman. Here he learns the practical side of the things he reads about and discusses in class.

No need is required to wait two or four years to see if certain ideas will work in business. The student can discuss them with the businessmen who have had actual experience and try some ideas while they are fresh in his mind.

A sincere effort is made to coordinate the classroom work with the students' work on his job.

The Basin Management Club affords the business students an opportunity to participate in school activities. It's sponsored by the school in cooperation with our State D.E. Department in Olympia and the National in Washington, D. C.

Many large businesses contribute a great amount to help sponsor our state and national conventions. There are over 40 large retailers who contribute time and money to the mid-management program.

Mid-management students, who are also working, can find a means of entering a school activity through the Basin management club.

Here they can find a social life as well as criticizing management on a small scale by assisting in the operation of one of the club's programs. The club sponsors dances, operates concessions at some college games, besides holding joint meetings with the management clubs of our other junior colleges.

Basin Management club has among its membership the Washington State President for Mid-Management Clubs. It also is fortunate in having the National President among its membership.

CBC Bookstore is operated in conjunction with this program. Members of the group are employed by the bookstore and obtain actual practice in merchandising while serving the student body and the faculty.

The Mid-Management Program of CBC is here to serve the students, helping them to develop all their capabilities to the utmost academically, in the classroom, partially by on-the-job training and socially through the Basin Management Club.

Formosa Foreign Student

'Man About the World' Enrolls with Freshmen

By Larry Ashby

WILLIAM (BILL) LIU, one of CBC's many new freshmen, has a fascinating personal story to tell.

He is a citizen of Nationalist China, born in Calcutta. He attended grade school in Alexandria, Egypt; junior high in Bangkok, Thailand; and high school in Johannesburg, South Africa.

In his varied travels Bill has learned many languages. He speaks fluently through German and French, and speaks English, Spanish and his native Chinese with excellence.

In 1949, when the Communist hordes were spreading their poison over China and Korea, his home was overtaken in Liao-Pei, China. This is in what is now Manchuria.

Fortunately, Bill and his family were in Egypt at the time, where his father was acting foreign consul for China. They never returned to Liao-Pei but made Tai-Pei, Formosa, their new home.

BILL'S FATHER, now Nationalist Chinese Foreign Minister and Director of East Asian Affairs, wanted him to come to America to obtain his college education.

Having relatives in Washington, he came to our state, and enrolled at CBC.

Bill plans a career in engineering, and after completing his studies here will further his education at Purdue.

How's that for a man about the world?

RELIGION, misconstrued by a young person, can prove to be very harmful. A religious issue was one of the problems confronting Franny in "Franny and Zooey" by Salinger as she bewilderedly groped for understanding and enlightenment.

J. D. Salinger has once again captured the frustrations of youth being disillusioned by a world of stereo-typed individuals who eventually prove to be very shallow and in competent in their field of life.

"Franny and Zooey," though not as well written in our opinion as "The Catcher In the Rye," proves to have many similar characteristics and both pertain to young adulthood.

As Franny is undergoing a type of nervous break-down, it is easily understood why the young girl is in the confused state she is. Zooey, Franny's brother, is trying to offer help and advice as he has already experienced this feeling of Franny's, but as he offers help Franny will not accept it.

His insight is much deeper than Franny's but it's been acquired with years and many experiences.

Salinger has again aptly presented a realistic picture of young adulthood, family life and the occurring problems of college life.

Data Processing Class New Here

FOR THE FIRST time this year, CBC is offering a course in Data Processing.

By mid-October, nine machines valued at approximately $200,000 will have arrived on campus for use by the Data Processing class.

These include the 1620 Electronic Computer, 407 Accounting Machine, 85 Collator and 548 Interpreter.

All of the machines are being shipped to CBC by the IBM corporation. The course is being taught by Mrs. Jewel Smith who was head analyst for General Electric at Hanford for 13 years.

THE INCIDENT in Mississippi involving Ole Miss the latest flare-up in a series of running integration between the state and the federal government.

I honestly believe that many of the students at university are being used as public pawns; that many really have for quite a while, that integration must.

But before a full transformation take place, the up-and-coming generation of today in the south have to have receive their schooling, be it vocational or professional, and then to the communities and become responsible citizens with actual responsible positions.

In a sense, they have to become parents of tomorrow and, no argument, this takes time.

HAVING LIVED in different parts of the deep south for many years, I personally realize the heavy indoctrination children receive from —parents, teachers, public-spirited citizens, etc.

But it has to be understood that this is a way of life of the south and has been for years, hundreds of them. And, like it or not, everyone is a product of his environment. You are what you are because of your surroundings to a great extent.

Speaking of integration, the environment in the south has changed tremendously and is still doing so. But miracles aren't like one-a-day vitamins. Change takes time. But it is happening. I can proudly say take a long look at Atlanta, Ga. Enough said.

Object of Near East Foundation Explained

By Ron Smick

A REPRESENTATIVE of the Near Eastern Foundation, Mrs. Murdun Woods—lectured and showed slides on the Foundation, September 21, during the History of Europe class taught by Mr. Bjerk.

"The Foundation's object is to assist governments of newly-developed nations in launching programs of rural and community improvement," explained Mrs. Woods.

"As rapidly as possible, these programs become the full responsibility of that government in matters of operation, financing and personal evaluation."

Mrs. Woods further explained that the Foundation only enters a country at the invitation of the local government when it has agreed to participate in and support the program in its own country.

"Major contribution of the Foundation is in the form of experienced technicians who, through modern methods, are demonstrating to host governments and their people how to develop their natural and human resources," she said.

AREAS in which technicians assist the countries include the following:

Demonstration of agricultural practices; production of new crops; disease prevention; control, home and farm; rural schools, social and credit cooperation; small husbandry, home and literacy.

Financed by contributions from private individuals, groups and some corporations, the Foundation is not a government agency, according to Mrs. Woods.

Host governments furnish funds and some personnel.

"It is hoped that this work by the Foundation will help that many backward countries who need help can have a fair chance to live up to a resistance to Communism," Mrs. Woods concluded.

Hawks Rated No. 1 in Nation

HARBOR. CBC halfback, goes over for a TD from two yards out three

CBC Hawks Ranked First

FIRST for Columbia College and the state of Washington came September 29 with the announcement that the CBC Hawks were ranked first among junior college teams in the nation. The Hawks were placed at the top of the rating poll by the Williamson Rating System. Previous to Saturday's game in Bakersfield, the Hawks had been rated fourth and Bakersfield was ranked first. The Williamson Rating System was one of a few that ranked the Hawks to first Bakersfield last week.

Head Coach Poole Says Grays Harbor Is Tough

By Gary McMillan
THIS SATURDAY'S game in the Pasco Bowl against the Chokers of Grays Harbor will be a "speed against power" tussel with a David and Goliath aspect to it. Although the Hawks completely crushed a powerful Bakersfield team last week with their excellent passing and running, this week's game will be "one of the toughest." Coach Dwight Poole, head mentor of the CBC varsity, tells us that the competition from Grays Harbor will be rough. The Chokers' small but speedy team will prove to be a mighty opponent to the Hawks, especially in light of their victory last Saturday at Everett. Although they are weak in pass defense and around the ends, they more than make up for this in the person of Sonny Luke. This speedy little halfback scored all but one of the Chokers' tallies last week for a grand total of 19 points. "ALTHOUGH the only advantage we have is size," according to Poole, "the general feeling of the team is one of confidence." With six veterans returning to the offensive starting team, the Hawks feel that their playing will be "excellent" for their first league game. Speed against power is the keynote to this week's battle royal against Grays Harbor. Watch for a lot of end runs on the part of the Chokers, most of it by Sonny Luke. The burly line and secondary of the Hawks, however, should be able to stand up well against them and deliver the lethal blow with their well-balanced aerial and ground game. This week's battle with Grays Harbor should be quite a spectacle of brute force and cunning against shiftiness and speed. However, as Dwight Poole puts it: "If the people are kept healthy and they have the same spirit as last game, we'll have a good season."

Rambling with Rick

By Rick Dykes
CBC'S SIX FOOT, 220 pound tackle John Phillips said about last week's Bakersfield game: "The worst mistake those fellows made all night was getting that touchdown in the first four minutes of play. It gave them too much confidence and scared the heck out of us at the same time." This week's game with Grays Harbor will be a dilly for our conference opener. Last week Grays Harbor smashed Everett JC, 20-12. WE MET WAYNE JOHNSON, a soph transfer from the University of Miami the other day. Two years ago Wayne ran second in the state track tournament here in Washington in both the high and low hurdles. He was on scholarship down in the deep south and is also on a track scholarship at CBC. Should be a man to keep an eye on this season.

Speaking of men to keep an eye on, Hansen and Monahan should come through as JC All America's in everybody's book if they keep up the torrid pace they've set so far.

Of course, there's that ever-present chance of injury and that nasty little word that takes a bigger toll in sports than any other one factor—over-confidence.

The one big gap in the Hawks over-all performance on defense is kick return yardage. We're really hurting there, coach. Although we must admit that Bakersfield's punting is the best CBC has seen in a very long time.

WE DON'T KNOW all the facts about the incident in Pasco earlier this week concerning some CBC footballers, and in all fairness to them, we are not in a position to cast judgment without all the facts.

But let's face facts. Football is spelled with a capital F. It's big time, very big. No matter what the circumstances, a pro fighter that gets into trouble has had the course. He's through. What price glory? A strict code of ethics that, like it or not, is governed by a hard-eyed public.

Gang Busters II Grab Big One

VERSATILE Columbia Basin Hawks launched a defensive Gang Busters II and fired such explosive offensive rockets as Owens, Hansen, Hare and Monahan in downing the powerful Bakersfield Renegades 20-7 last Saturday night at Bakersfield before 18,359 fans in packed Memorial Stadium.

The Gang Busters II looked as if they would be orbiting all year by stopping the swift Renegades equally as well both on the ground and in the air.

Making "brick wall" stands inside their 25-yard line twice in the fourth quarter, the CBC defenders limited Bakersfield to 146 yards, with only two first downs and 56 yards of it coming in the second half. The desperate Renegades attempted 13 passes, completing only one.

Although the CBC defense was surprisingly strong, the show of the opener for both colleges was the "Roaring Rockets" of the CBC offense.

Combining power running with daring passing, Dwight Poole's rockets amassed 385 yards. The big guns for CBC on offense were Hansen, slamming his way for 73 yards in 18 carries, and Monahan, connecting with nine of 16 passes for 192 yards.

THE RENEGADES drew first blood when Widel skipped 36 yards to pay dirt with just 3:33 gone in the game. The point after touchdown boot by Robinson was good for the extra point.

The Hawks decided to do business and Hare bulled his way to six points three seconds into the second quarter. Muller captured the extra point after touchdown to even the score. This time the Hawks flew a big part of the way with Monahan and Hansen using the much-to-be-used air lanes for 49 yards.

Bringing the crowd to their feet, the Renegades' Robinson zoomed 67 yards on a punt return for a TD which was nullified by a clipping penalty upfield.

This stunned Bakersfield into a fumble on the next play on their 25-yard line. CBC's Phillips recovered but the Hawks couldn't go and an attempted field goal bounced off the cross bar.

With four minutes left in the first half, CBC used the air lanes again to score with a Monahan to Hansen pass covering 31 yards but the point after touchdown attempt was wide.

Capping out the night's scoring, the Hawks blasted 82 yards in 11 plays near the end of the third quarter. This time the point after touchdown was good.
